

STUDIO OPEN DAY SATURDAY 6TH NOVEMBER

Urbane Kitchens, one of Bristol's leading kitchen design companies, are launching their exciting newly renovated kitchen studio on November 6th. Featuring completely original new displays by Lydia, who is fast gaining a reputation as one of the most innovative designers around, the studio incorporates many eco materials and ideas, in line with Urbane's sustainable building ethos. Come in and ask Lydia about your kitchen and bathroom ideas!

Nick Lloyd, MD of Urbane Kitchens and Urbane Sustainable Building says: "I believe we are the first kitchen company in Bristol to actively incorporate green and sustainable materials into our kitchens and in Lydia we have an exciting designer who is bold and innovative not only in her designs, but in her use of colour and textures. This will be a great afternoon so do come along."

LIVE COOKERY DEMONSTRATION

The day will also feature an exciting live cookery demo with top chef Barny Haughton from prestigious harbourside restaurant and cookery school Bordeaux Quay. Barny will be preparing recipes for us based on locally sourced, organic and seasonal produce. Bordeaux Quay is internationally recognised for its contribution to sustainable development and environmental efficiency. The Cookery School was set up in 1998 by Barny Haughton and its mission is to transform the way people think and feel about food. Don't miss this wonderful treat – a must for anyone interested in great food!
